

ABSTRACT

A preferred embodiment of the invention is a method for synchronizing a mobile terminal comprising M diversity branches to a wireless network using diversity combination to acquire the code transmitted from a base-station and to determine the frequency offset of the transmitted code.